Mayor Hyfan pins their medals on their uniform coats.

The highest honor—the James Gordon Bennett memorial medal—will go to Fireman Frank J. Costello of No. 12 truck, for a heroic although unsuccessful attempt he made to save the life of Fireman Denis J. Donovan at a fire in West Fourteenth street last August. A cellar full of celluloid was ablaze and cellar full of celluloid was ablaze and Donovan's company was ordered to abandon work on it. They left the building and Donovan was missed. Costello still down a ladder to the cellur and entered it, although there was imminent lisk of the celluloid exploding, and started to drag Donovan out. He fell by the way and was aided by Fireman Frank J. McGrath, who finally got both out of the building. Donovan died in an hour. McGrath will receive the Thomas A. Kenny medal.

The Bonner medal will go to Fireman Robert J. Davis, who while standing on the top rung of a scaling standing on the top rung of a scaling to find the principle of the standing on the top rung of a scaling to find the principle of the standing on the top rung of a scaling that the standing on the top rung of a scaling to alder held doggedly to a woman who was trying to jump from a window above him until a longer ladder was trying to jump from a window above him until a longer ladder was trying to jump from a window above him until a longer ladder was trying to jump from a window above him until a longer ladder was trying to jump from a window above him until a longer ladder was trying to jump from a window above him until a longer ladder was trying to jump from a window above him until a longer ladder was trying to jump from a window above him until a longer ladder was trying to jump from a window above him until a longer ladder was trying to jump from a window above him until a longer ladder was trying to jump from a window above him until a longer ladder was trying to jump from a window above him until a longer ladder was trying to jump from a window above him until a longer ladder was trying to jump from a window above him until a longer ladder was trying to jump from a window above him until a longer ladder was trying to jump from a window above him until a longer ladder well above him until a longer
